Information Collection and Use

Visitors are not required to provide Personally Identifiable Information in order to browse the OneFamily website and obtain valuable information. OneFamily is the sole owner of the information collected on the OneFamily website. We take every reasonable precaution to protect our users' Personally Identifiable Information and OneFamily will not sell, share or exchange Personally Identifiable Information with any other organization or individual in any way other than as disclosed in this Privacy Policy. OneFamily does not sell or share donor information collected online or offline.

Our site may contain links to other websites that are owned and operated by third parties. The practices and policies of those websites are not covered by this Policy. Other such websites may collect information about you through the use of cookies when you view or click on their content. We cannot control this collection of information. You should contact any such third party operators directly if you have any questions about their use of the information that they collect.

We may disclose your Personal Identifiable Information to third parties to charge your credit card and process your donations. For example, we must release your credit card information to the card-issuing bank to confirm payment.

We will disclose Personal Identifiable Information upon receipt of a court order, subpoena, or to cooperate with a law enforcement investigation, without prior notice to you. We fully cooperate with law enforcement agencies in identifying those who use our services for illegal activities. We reserve the right to report to law enforcement agencies any activities that we believe to be unlawful.

Despite our best efforts, OneFamily cannot guaranty that our systems, software and website are beyond the reach of unauthorized persons or impervious to cyber attack. In the event your Personal Identifiable Information is obtained through our system by unauthorized third parties, you agree, as a condition of using our website, to waive any claims for damages, losses, costs or expenses against OneFamily.
